

Sept. 11 conspirator Zacarias Moussaoui's guilty plea was invalid because he was denied potentially helpful evidence and the right to choose his own counsel, his lawyer told a federal appeals court Friday.

A federal prosecutor countered that Moussaoui got exactly what he wanted when he ignored his attorneys' advice and pleaded guilty before the evidence he had sought could be provided.

More...

TVNL Comment: Corporate media all are using the term 'Sept.11 conspirator.' - not 'alleged' conspirator. Is he guilty before a trial and conviction? Just asking.