

Credit cards then and now: A look at how the new law changes the rules

Sunday, 21 February 2010 18:31 -

The new credit card law is finally here. Starting Monday, banks will need to abide by new regulations on terms and disclosures. The idea behind the landmark law was to prevent banks from using practices that often dug borrowers deeper into debt.

A look at how the credit card law affects key aspects of your account.

More...