

Maybe 59 million Americans were not dumb enough to elect George W. Bush as their president in the 2000 and the 2004 elections. Maybe the exit polls were correct after all and the vote results were not.

Unfortunately, the only person who may have been able to verify that the voting machines in major states were rigged, Michael Connell, is now dead due to a mysterious airplane "accident".

Do you realize what chaos could ensue if this election theft, this coup d'etat, could be verified? For the American people to learn that the past eight years of war, death, deception, theft, torture, fear and final economic devastation was caused by a leader not elected by the US population? Eight years stolen from all Americans and also from the world?

For this reason, this administration could not allow Michael Connell to testify that he may have altered the outcome of votes, possibly working directly under Karl Rove, Bush's Brain.

Unfortunately, "they" will not allow us to learn the truth.

Source...