

Fish oil outperforms statin in heart failure study

Sunday, 31 August 2008 15:09 -

Fish oil supplements may work slightly better than a popular cholesterol-reducing drug to help patients with chronic heart failure, according to new research released Sunday.

Chronic heart failure is a condition that occurs when the heart becomes enlarged and cannot pump blood efficiently through the body.

More...