

The frozen pot pies that sickened an estimated 15,000 people with salmonella in 2007 left federal inspectors mystified. At first they suspected the turkey. Then they considered the peas, carrots and potatoes.

Increasingly, the corporations that supply Americans with processed foods are unable to guarantee the safety of their ingredients.

More...