

Women banned from Baghdad shrine

Wednesday, 07 January 2009 11:32 - Last Updated Wednesday, 07 January 2009 11:35

Iraqi authorities have closed a major shrine in Baghdad's Kadhimiya area to women amid security concerns as a Shia religious ceremony reaches its climax.

Ashura is among the holiest days for Shia Muslims, but women will be barred from the Imam Moussa al-Kadhim shrine.

More...

TVNL Comment: Iraqi women had full equality under Saddam!