

At the UN statements, like web sites, can be made to disappear. While the range of web sites blocked inside the UN, which Inner City Press first reported on earlier this month, includes watchdog sites like GlobalCompactCritics.net, on Monday UN Spokesperson Michele Montas defended the omission from the UN's online transcript of Ban Ki-moon's April 16 Q&A session with the press of an answer he gave about Iran.

TVNL Comment: How's that for our world leaders? They are all liars and the people of this planet better do something about it soon...before they can't!
