

The US is calling for tough action against people and states that carry out cyber attacks, following an alleged attack on search giant Google in China.

Secretary of State Hillary Clinton will say in a speech an attack on a nation's networks is "an attack on all".

Google has threatened to quit China, saying hackers tried to infiltrate its software coding and e-mail accounts of Chinese human rights activists.

More...