

President Donald Trump was visibly displeased Tuesday when a reporter asked him whether he would consider pardoning Michael Cohen, his longtime personal lawyer who is the focus of a criminal investigation but has not been charged with any crime.

Jonathan Karl, ABC News' White House correspondent, asked the question during an Oval Office meeting between Trump and French President Emmanuel Macron.

"Stupid question," Trump responded.

The FBI raided Cohen's home, office, and hotel room earlier this month as part of a criminal investigation into whether he violated campaign finance laws or committed bank fraud.

TVNL Comment: Stupid, frightened Person Playing President. We all know the answer to the question. Trump's dumb reaction shows how close he is to a total breakdown.
