

A secret Army interrogation squad abused dozens of Iraqi prisoners, a firm of lawyers has claimed. Prisoners were hooded, held in "stress positions", denied sleep and daylight, and told their wives and mothers would be raped, the lawyers allege.

They say the Joint Forward Intelligence Team (JFIT) was not answerable to the Army chain of command.

More...