

During today's White House press briefing, spokesperson Dana Perino echoed President Bush's claim that Iraqi journalist Muntader al-Zaidi's frustrations are not representative of the Iraqi public's sentiments. She pointed out that Prime Minister Nouri al-Maliki apologized for the mistreatment of his guest. When reporter Helen Thomas pointed out that U.S. forces are actually "occupiers," Perino bristled:

Video...